

World Population Growth is ...

Records show that CO₂ emissions from the burning of fossil fuels respond proportionately to increases in population size.

Human population grew from 1.6 billion to 6.1 billion in the last century.

CO₂ emissions grew twelve-fold during the same time.

World population growth is the 'elephant in the room' when it comes to global CO₂ emissions and hence Global Warming.

The Elephant in the Room